THE STEWART WILL CONTEST. Judge Hilton Files an Answer to t Suit of Prescott H. Butler.

Suit of Prescott H. Butler.

New York, June 4.—Ex-Attorney General Leslie Russell, as attorney for Henry Hilton, served the following answer in the Stewart will case to-day.

The suit is brought by Prescott Hall Butler against Henry Hilton to compel him to make a settlement under the will of the widow of A. T. Stewart. Mr. Butler is one of the devisees, and the suit is an attempt to secure an explanation of Judge Hilton's administration of the estate of the merchant prince as well. Mr. Butler's wife is a grandnice of Mrs. Stewart.

"The defendant, Henry Hilton, in person and as executor," the answer begins, "respectfully submitting to the court that the allegations of the complaint averred to be 'not substantial cause of action, but material circumstances,' are irrelevant to the issues presented by its prayer for relief, answers said complaint as follows: The death of Cornelia M. Stewart without issue, and the relationship of several persons named in the complaint are admitted. That any of the persons named in the property mentioned in the schedules annexed to the complaint, and in this action sought. The stewart, and none of the persons named in the complaint were of the bood of Alex. T. Stewart, and none of the persons named in the complaint were of the bood of Alex. T. Stewart, and none of the persons named in the complaint were of the bood of Alex. T. Stewart, and none of the persons named in the complaint were of the bood of Alex. T. Stewart, and none of the persons named in the complaint were of the bood of Alex. T. Stewart, and none of the persons named in the complaint were of the bood of Alex. T. Stewart, and none of the persons named in the complaint were of the bood of Alex. T. Stewart, and none of the persons named in the complaint were of the bood of Alex. T. Stewart, and none of the persons named in the complaint were of the blood of Alex. T. Stewart."
Hitton further declares that the persons are not the heirs-at-law and next of kin of Cornelia M. carried on a business greater than any other mer-cantile house in New York. The greater part of the Stewart fortune was not the interest in the above firm, and it is denied that that interest was not less than $20,000,000. It

THE PACIFIC RAILROADS. President Adams Thinks Consolidation was a Good Thing. Boston, June 4.—The final session in Boston the public investigation by the United States com-Controller Mink, were put in evidence, as was also Jay Gould's account with the Kansas Pacific and Union Pacific railroad companies. He said an impression had gone forth that the matter of consolidation had resulted in foisting a couple of worthless roads upon the Union Pacific He said that this was not so, and presented a statement of the earnings of the annexed lines to prove that it was not so. The Kansas Pacific branch at the present time earns as much as the Union Pacific Central line. The consolidation had been advantageous for all solidation were at 30, are now at par. It was very apparent, he said, that the whole matter of consolidation has benefitted the community exceedingly, and in his opinion, any attempt to sever the consolida-It has helped traffic by breaking down barriers and reducing rates, as well as increasing the government's security.
Mr. Anderson inquired: "Have you any knowledge of the power of any officers of the company having been used in an illegitimate manner at the present time or in the past?"
Witness replied that he had no reason to sup pose that any of the directors profited improper from it, and, while unwilling to pass judgment upon Mr. Gould in this connection, he thought the settlement was a very good and timely, one. Continuing, Mr. Adams said there had been cases where branch lines had been very valuable to the main line even when

Payne just watked right by him and up the starts. His heavy boots made a great noise, and Mr. Fred. Seward, (he was his father's secretary, you know, and was in an adjoining room), came out in the passage to see what was the matter. When he would not let Payne into the room, Payne reached down into his boot leg and drew out a revolver, and snapped it right at his breast three times, but it did not go off. Then Payne took the butt of his pistol and heat him over the took the butt of his pistol and beat him over the head with it until his head and face was a mass of blood. He did not throw him down stairs, as a colored man who came here about a year ago many folks think; he just left him where he was, from Massachusetts, was arrested last evening by too weak to do anything. NATIONAL THEATER.—The regular season at this house closes this evening, and, without allowing the dust to gather, on Monday evening begins the second summer opera season. The management has, after no little difficulty, got together a company of light opera artists, who, it is confidently believed, will give the public satisfaction in the series of musical works of established merit and the published list of artists are those of people already favorably known here, while the others come from troupes, a connection with which is a guarantee of considerable merit. Special attention will be given by the management to the mounting and costuming of the operas, the chorus will be sufficiently strong, and the orchestra will be enlarged. "Nanon," the work selected to open the season, is full of genuine comedy situations. while its score contains some exceedingly pleasing music. THE CARDINAL'S RETURN. An Imposing Civic and Religious Reception to Take Place in Bakimore on

From the Baltimore Sun. The public reception of the cardinal promises to be a very imposing ceremony. At Union Station the cardinal will be received by Mayor Hodges, members of the city council, some of the judges of the courts, and the police commissioners. Mayor Hodges will make an address on the part of the city, and Mr. Chas. J. Bonaparte will speak for the city, and Mr. Chas. J. Bonaparte will speak for the Roman Catholic part of the community. The cardinal will respond to the addresses, after which the entire party will take carriages and ride to the cardinal's residence through double lines of Catholic organizations drawn up on both sides of Charles street. At the head of the carriages will march a platon of policemen, then will come the mayor, city council, judges, and commissioners, who will be followed by the 5th regiment band, the Young Catholic's Friend Society a committee members of the city council, some of the judges of Catholic organizations drawn up on both sides of Charles street. It is probable that the Catholic societies of Washington will be largely represented in the cardinal's reception. The Young Catholic's Friend Society, having accepted the invitation of the Baltimore organizations to participate, will send over fully a thousand men. The Carroli Institute, the most prominent of the Washington local Catholic literary associations, has decided to accept the second control of the Washington local Catholic literary associations, has decided to accept the second control of the Washington local Catholic literary associations, has decided to accept the second control of the Washington local Catholic literary associations has decided to accept the second control of the Washington local Catholic literary associations. iterary associations, has decided to accompany the Young Catholic's Friend Society, and to parade as members of that body. The Catholic Knights have also in contemplation to come over. They will hold a meeting on Sunday to finally deter-mine on the trip. It is likely that all members of Catholic organizations from Washington city will assemble under the banner of the Young Catholic's Friend Society. Nearly all the members of the Washington organization are enrolled as members of that society, and it has therefore been thought wise not to diminish the strength of the delegation going from Washington by parading as sepa-rate bodies. The delegation from Washington will
